The SIMSA BHP Billiton Hatch-Bantrel Event – a networking bonanza

Once again, the room was filled for the Saskatchewan Industrial Suppliers Association (SIMSA) members-only event with BHP Billiton and Hatch/Bantrel on Wednesday, April 26th in Saskatoon.

Representatives from the three companies presented an update on the Jansen potash project, discussed innovation, answered questions from the floor, and then remained for networking.

Of greatest value to SIMSA members, was the networking opportunity after the event, as representatives from all three companies remained until all questions and conversations were complete; these company representatives were the last to leave.

BHP Billiton's Brock Gill presents to SIMSA members.

At the event, SIMSA members were addressed by:

- Brock Gill - Program Director Commercial, Potash, BHP Billiton
- Mike Fedoroff - Global Director, Potash, Industrial Metals, HATCH
- Paul Gosse – Vice President, General Manager Calgary Office, Bantrel

In addition to the three presenters, BHP Billiton also provided to the event:

- Kelly Sikorski – Senior Contracts Administrator
- Fabien Jean - Program Manager Engineering, Mechanical

As with other SIMSA events, all of the guest persons were seated individually around the room for the lunch portion, to allow for better access prior to the presentations and during lunch.

Numerous SIMSA members commented that this “was another great SIMSA event.
